

Clay Rojas

Speaker overview

Help your people put down the weight.

Keynotes and practical training for veterans, first responders, and the leaders who serve them. Clay combines lived experience, counseling knowledge, and faith-grounded tools to encourage earlier support-seeking and healthier relationships.

The War Within | Signature keynote

For conferences, veteran organizations, churches, and men's events. 45-60 minutes; half-day workshop option. Participants identify the effects of accumulated stress, name a support resource, and choose a practical next step.

Department training

For police, fire, and EMS teams. Suggested 90-minute workshop or half-day format. Participants recognize personal stress indicators, draft a wellness plan, and practice a supportive conversation.

Campus programs

For veteran resource centers and student affairs teams. 2-3 hour workshops or multi-session cohorts. Participants connect service strengths to academic goals, map support resources, and develop a peer-connection plan.

Plan your event

Visit <https://clay-rojas-speaking.mellowmole.chatgpt.site/contact> to share your date, audience, goals, format, and budget. Programs, deliverables, travel, and fees are confirmed by agreement.

Biography & event preparation

Biography

Clay Rojas is a U.S. Marine Corps combat veteran, former police officer, author, and biblical counselor. A San Francisco Bay Area native now living in Tulsa, he holds a Master's in Counseling Psychology from William Jessup University. He previously practiced therapy in California with justice-involved youth and now serves as Regional Director for The Forge in Tulsa. His work includes counseling, leadership development, and Rally Point veteran support. As a follower of Jesus, Clay brings faith and practical care into conversations about the hidden weight of service.

Suggested host introduction

Our speaker understands service from both sides of the uniform. Clay Rojas is a Marine Corps combat veteran, former police officer, author, and biblical counselor with a Master's in Counseling Psychology. Today, he helps veterans, first responders, and their families recognize the hidden weight they carry and take practical steps toward support and resilience. Please welcome Clay Rojas.

Planning checklist

Confirm the audience and learning priorities; how faith will be addressed; program length and discussion time; microphone, projection, and room layout; accessibility; travel; recording permission; and locally available support resources. AV requirements are finalized with the host.

Media & portrait

Audio interview: It's an Inside Job.

Video: ForgePodcast.

Portrait and program information: Meeting planner hub.

Speaking and training are educational and do not establish a clinical treatment relationship.